

JOIN OUR TEAM!

We're selectively expanding our NYC team. We welcome the chance to connect with experienced clinicians seeking a practice that combines autonomy with meaningful support.

At The Ross Center in New York City, we've spent decades building a collaborative, full-service group mental health practice designed to support both exceptional patient care and thriving clinicians.

We offer a comprehensive umbrella of services under one roof, including psychotherapy, psychiatric evaluation and medication management, and comprehensive testing, making it easy to provide truly integrated, evidence-based care.

The Ross Center offers the best of both worlds: professional autonomy alongside the resources, collegiality, and infrastructure of a well-established, multidisciplinary group.

Our clinicians work closely together, allowing for real-time consultation, coordinated treatment, and seamless referrals, all supported by an experienced administrative team that manages operations and helps match patients appropriately.
